TY COBB HAS FRIEND AT Indoor Sports CONTEST WHO GREATLY ENJOYS HIMSELF ALL DAY

By LOUIS A. DOUGHER.

Ty Cobb had a friend watching him in the Tigers' first game of their final series in the Capital, which by the by, was a victory for the Jungle Cats, 3-to-2. He was a young man entirely surrounding at least six bits' worth of corn likker. He sat—when he wasn't standing-in the upper tier behind the pest box. When all the world was pulling for George Mogridge, and later Ray Francis, to turn back the invaders, this friend of the Detroit manager howled and yelled encouragement. Had Ty taken his friend's advice, the Griffs would have been buried by a greater score than the Chicago Cubs ran up against the poor old Phils. But Ty probably counted himself fortunate in getting those three runs and holding the Griffs to a mere pair.

Ty's friend was a noisy guy. He liked to hear the sound of his own syllables,-and he had a plenty. "Come on, you Bobby," he roared in the very first inning when Lu Blue came up. "Let's get a twobagger." It positively hurt him to see Gharrity freeze to that foul fly. Each and every member of the Detroit lineup was greeted with applause from Ty's friend. He had a scoorecard and so had a fairish idea who was hitting.

And still Ty's friend stood and relled for some "Savannah river." Ray Francis was working the corers and soon had the Tiger leader in a hole. Cobb was swinging like a gate at a hook. By TAD FITZGERALD AND RICE IN FEATURE BOUT LABOR DAY Frankie Rice, the Baltimore "cave man," who practically fright ened Johnny Reno half to death a few weeks ago, and Whitey Fitz-gerald, one of Philadelphia's toughest young featherweights, are likley to meet in a cat-and-dog fight at Sportland Arena on the afternoon of Labor Day. Matchmaker Frankie Mann, remembering the hot battle these two lads offered Baltimore fans some months ago, has been seeking to bring them together again and expects to have his arrangements completed inside of twenty-four hours. If Rice and Fitzgerald are obtained for the big holiday show fully half the attendanc will be Baltimoreans who saw their other clash. For speed and ferocity it has not been equaled in years in this section.

"I hope to have Rice's name to a+ contract by tonight," said Frankie Mann today. "I already have Fitz Youthful Marvel Also gerald in line. Believe me, these two boys will put up a fight worth seeing. I asked a friend the day after they met in Baltimore, 'Did they fight?

There is no especial class to either Rice or Fitzgerald, but there is a world of aggressiveness and courage. They fly at each other like young bull terriers. That's the sort of a bout that always draws.

Johnny Reno, the Navy feather-weight, handed Goldie Ahearn a boxing lesson in ten rounds at Sportland Arena last night, receiving the decision from the judges.

Reno owed his victory to his superior aggressiveness and speed. He was all around the flat-footed Ahearn from first to last. Indeed, he Washington southpaw was enitled to but a single round, the when he came to life and forced the going.

Shows Self In Traps

The youthful marvel, featuring every variety of sport this year, has found the way into trap shooting. Jimmy Bonner, a thirteen-year-old New York youngster, went to the Great Lakes tournament, held on the grounds of the Indianapolis Gun Club, and broke a 97 out of a possible 100 to take the preliminary handicap shoot. And the worst of it was that his father, who has been laboriously coaching him for three years, was only able to break two less than the boy.
